A NEW HOME, AT LAST

Property committee chairman Dave McAdam keeps an eye on Branch 636 President Tony Samarillo as he adds a coat of paint to the sign post outside the new Legion. The branch was officially opened Saturday in a ceremony that followed just a year after the Minden Legion received its charter. For a report on the opening, turn to page 18.

Ministry sets policy, signs must be moved

The Ministry of Transportation has finally come up with an interim policy to govern the placement and style of road identification signs being put up by cottagers' associations.

This policy, however, means that the Gull Lake association, which instigated the policy in the first place, will have to move 18 of its signs on Highway 35 back another 30 feet.

In an effort to improve the emergency response service to the Gull Lake area, a system of numbering the roads was ironed out by the association.

With the help of a $1,000 donation from Lutterworth Township, signs were made up and put in place by the spring of 1986.

The problem, though, is that the ministry had not given its permission to have the signs erected along the highway. And although the township was ordered to have them removed last year, they were left in place in the hopes that some agreement could be reached between the association and the ministry.

Joel Lynch from the ministry attended last Thursday's council meeting to deliver the news that an interim policy has been established for this sort of sign. However, he said the 18 signs on the highway will have to be moved back to the property line, which in most cases is 60 feet from the centre of the highway. The signs are now about 30 feet back from the centre line.

Lynch explained that when the ministry's head office was notified that these signs were in place, they began developing a policy. Although a finished policy has yet to be established, those signs that are now in place will be allowed to stay, subject to certain conditions, said Lynch. The condition is that they have to be set back to the property line, fence line or bush line.

Eventually, the ministry will have a complete policy in place which will outline the style of the sign, as well as location. Lynch said the ministry wants to make sure the signs are uniform in style. They should not vary from municipality to municipality or from one cottage association to another.

Don Fleet and Peter Elmslie were representing the cottagers' association at the meeting. Fleet said the problem with setting the signs back is that they may not be visible from the road, and this would defeat their purpose. Lynch, however, said he has looked at all the signs that would need moving and feels they would still be visible once they are set back.

Although it is the cottagers' association that put up the signs, the ministry is asking the municipality to move them back. This caused some confusion, that was never really cleared up at the meeting. In the end, though, council agreed to have the signs moved and then bill the cottagers' association for the work.

All was quiet in Stanhope

All was quiet in Stanhope Township on the weekends throughout the summer. Or at least that's the way it appears.

Responding to requests from residents for a bylaw enforcement officer to work weekends throughout the summer, Stanhope Township council hired George Tipton to be on call. At last Wednesday's meeting Tipton reported in a letter to council that he did not receive any calls during the eight weekends.

Council moves ahead with recycling plan

Stanhope Township will very likely be the first municipality in the county to implement a recycling program.

After numerous discussions on this matter, township council has decided to take it a step further and make contact with companies that would collect and transport recyclable materials. The Ministry of the Environment has already provided council with a list of companies that are already involved in this line of work.

The main question to be asked, says Councillor Jock Mavor, is whether the township is prepared to pay to have garbage recycled instead of buried. The cost of establishing a recycling system is not known at this point. However, Stanhope will soon be losing one of its landfill sites and the completion of a county-wide waste-management study is three years away. "The Halls Lake Dump is closing soon and we don't have three years to play around," said Mavor. He is in favour of the county's plan to improve waste management but he feels the township has to take some steps of its own in the interim.

Councillor Ann Barker noted that there are a few local companies that have been collecting garbage in the township. Because their business could suffer if a recycling program is set up, she said they should be given an option to be involved in the program.

Houseboat fears reach Lutterworth

The chances of Three Buoys houseboats setting up operation on Gull Lake may be remote, but township council hopes to make it impossible before this term of office comes to a close in November.

Responding to the alarm raised by an article in Cottage Life magazine, Lutterworth Council will be looking for ways of keeping houseboats off the lakes within the township.

The issue was raised at last Thursday's council meeting when a letter was received from William Sharpe. Councillor Al Stott pointed out that houseboats are not a problem on any of the lakes in Lutterworth and suggested that this should be set aside until after the election. However, Reeve Bill Valentine wants to have action taken before that time.

Valentine said he would love to pass a bylaw that would prevent houseboats from using any of the lakes in the township. "I'd love to pass it right now."

Wolf pack kills goat, township pays compensation

A pack of wolves on the west side of Kushog Lake has killed a goat and Stanhope Township Council will be paying compensation to the owner, Carl Harrison.

Council received a letter from Harrison at last Wednesday's meeting which stirred discussion on the controversial issue of dealing with the wolf problem in the Highland. Councillor Ann Barker said it was a full pack that killed the goat, not just a few wolves.

This is not the first incident of wolves killing livestock in the area. Councillor Jim Harrison noted that a while back a lamb was killed by a pack of wolves on the Dawson Road. He said three of the lamb's legs were chewed off and the rest of the lamb was left behind.

Haliburton County offers a bounty to trappers for wolves and Deputy Reeve Elvin Johnson noted that two wolves were caught recently near the Scotch Line. Some naturalists, who oppose the bounty, have been questioning its legality, though. Trapping wolves for protection is permitted while trapping strictly for the fur is not.

According to Johnson, the problem of wolves killing livestock in this area was much worse when more farmers were raising sheep. "I've seen some awful messes years ago when there were lots of sheep around," he said. He remembered seeing up to 20 sheep killed in a field by wolves.

While the problem seems to be restricted to livestock, Councillor Ann Barker said there are no guarantees that wolves would not kill a child. "There's no record of humans ever being attacked by a wolf, but there's no saying it wouldn't if there was a small child out."

By resolution, council agreed to pay compensation of $100 to Harrison for the killed goat. The township can recover that payment from the provincial government.

few miles south of here in the Trent-Severn Waterway, where they are available for rent. Despite their popularity with vacationers, cottagers in that area are irate over what they are calling an invasion of privacy.

Cottage Life magazine, which tailors its writing to Ontario's cottagers, describes house boats as box-like houses on pontoons. "They blunder from lake to lake, leaving a wake of destruction, grey water, and noise."

None of the lakes in Lutterworth Township are experiencing this problem. However, Reeve Valentine says he can see the potential of "a few yahoos buying them".

"I'd like to see us just jump on this while the going is good," he said. "I'd love to see it (a bylaw banning) on the books before we go."

Preventing the boats from using the lakes is not that simple, though. The lakes themselves are not owned by the cottagers or the township. Therefore the only way of keeping houseboats off the water is by cutting off their access. In his letter, Sharpe suggested that a bylaw would be passed forbidding the operation, loading and repair of houseboats from the shores of any lake in the township.

During the next few weeks, council will be trying to get hold of sample bylaws that may be in use in other municipalities.

Signs

All the Gull Lake Road identification signs on Highway 35 must be moved back another 30 feet from the shoulder of the highway because the Ministry of Transportation says so in its new interim policy on these signs.

This is basically what Lutterworth Township Council and the Gull Lake Cottagers' Association were told last Thursday when ministry representative Joel Lynch made the drive from Huntsville to attend a Council meeting. A permanent policy has not yet been set, but the signs have to be moved anyway.

The Gull Lake Cottage Association spent a great deal of time and effort preparing a simple system of identifying the location of the many cottages in their area. The system was designed to make it as easy as possible for fire or ambulance crews to locate any cottage or home on the lake. However, to make the system work, signs had to be installed on the roadways. And unfortunately, 18 had to be placed along Highway 35, which meant the association had to deal with the Ministry of Transportation, perhaps the most bureaucratic wing of the provincial government.

At first the association tried to co-operate with the ministry to get permission to place the 18 signs on the highway. After much frustration, though, they had no choice but to go ahead and plant the signs. Ignoring the ministry's warning was probably the only way the association could ever get the ministry moving on this.

It's encouraging to see that a policy is now being developed that will allow other cottage associations to establish similar emergency response systems. However, it seems ridiculous that the ministry should force the Gull Lake Association to endure more inconvenience simply because the interim policy says the signs must be moved. It would make far more sense to leave well enough alone until the ministry has its permanent policy in place.

The Gull Lake Cottagers' Association should be congratulated for its perseverance on this matter. In addition to establishing an effective system for themselves, they are paving the way for other cottage associations to follow.

Clubs support recreation

Editor:

Subsequent to my letter in the June 7th Times regarding outside municipality financial support for the Minden Community Centre and Arena, I would like to report that Laxton, Digby, Longford townships have raised their own donation this year to $35 and Galway and Cavenish to $50 per participation. Five of the six surrounding townships have appointed a representative to attend our recreation meetings (either on a full time basis or at least the budget meeting) which I'm sure will improve the communication and understanding of the financial difficulties faced by all of us.

Because of the increased costs this year, the Minden Recreation Committee also approached the local service clubs for a donation toward the Red Cross Swim and the Summer Fun Programs. We would like to thank the Minden Kinettes, Lions and Lionesses, and the Royal Canadian Legion for their generous support.

We hope this answers some of the questions that have arisen this year regarding the Recreation Committee and the Arena.

Toni Carr,
Chairman, Minden
Recreation Committee

Fleeting moments of glory

Glory is fleeting, but obscurity is forever.
Napoleon.

Well, I see that The Flower is making the rounds of hockey clubs in the NHL, trying to recapture his glory days. Guy Lafleur is 37, which is ah, venerable for a pro hockey forward, unless your name happens to be Gordie Howe. Even Howe, who was still potting goals and dishing out hip checks into his fifties, survived by judicious use of elbows, sticks and puck savvy. Howe was the wise old bull on the ice. Lafleur in his prime was The Speedster, streaking down his wing past opposing black 'n white

by Arthur Black

players who suddenly looked like so many fire hydrants, his long hair flowing like a comet's tail behind him. On a hockey player, legs are the first thing to go. Lafleur had already lost a step or two when he retired, and that was five years ago.

Ah, glory is a demanding mistress. Is there a balding, spare-tired, middle-aged guy out there who, on occasion, hasn't fantasized his own back yard patio into the ten yard line of Exhibition Stadium, fourth quarter, last play, score tied? Then (making sure the neighbours weren't looking) taken the touchdown pass that won the Grey Cup?

Tough enough for all us has-beens and never-weres, but it must be murder for NHL-ers like Lafleur - guys that were there and tasted the glory, however briefly.

Never mind the bushel baskets of money, the bonus Porsches for signing and the coveys of pliant bimbos waiting at the dressing room door -

Stop work order was inappropriate: Trexcon

A copy of the following letter was also addressed to the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden.

Editor:

This letter is in regards to an Order to Comply and a Stop Work Order issued on August 30, 1988 by Building Inspector Bradley Bradamore, against the Staunworth Non Profit Housing project in the village of Minden.

The conditions of the Stop Work Order state:

"No backfilling of foundation until you meet the Ontario Building Code in regards to Section 9.20.4.1 and 9.20.4.3 or submit an engineer's report that this meets the minimum requirements of the Ontario Building Code

R-20 419/86."

To satisfy this condition, the structural engineer has inspected the area in question, and certified its structural integrity. However, we feel that the section which the stop work order was issued under in no way relates to the area of work. This area is a below-grade, reinforced masonry foundation wall, and the section of the code cited in the stop work order refers to above-grade masonry.

The stop work order has caused a delay in the project. Delay costs on a project of this size can become quite substantial, and we feel that this delay was caused by your inspector's misinterpretation of the building code. If this type of action persists, we will have no alternative but to look to the Town for the recovery of our losses. Our company strives to build to high quality standards, and if a legitimate problem arises, we will take every step necessary to correct it. However, we can not afford to have our project unnecessarily delayed.

Item 5.9 in the Minutes of Meeting No. 5 state that Mr. Bradamore was satisfied with the masonry work, and would visit the site daily. Neither of these seems to be the case. He issued the stop work order shortly after we were led to believe he accepted the work, and has made only sporadic visits to the site.

We feel that a problem such as the one we are currently faced with can be avoided by having Mr. Bradamore take a more active role in the inspection process, and keeping in closer contact with the Engineers.

Hopefully, this issue can be resolved quickly, and we can continue to construct the building to everyone's satisfaction.

Accepting the challenge

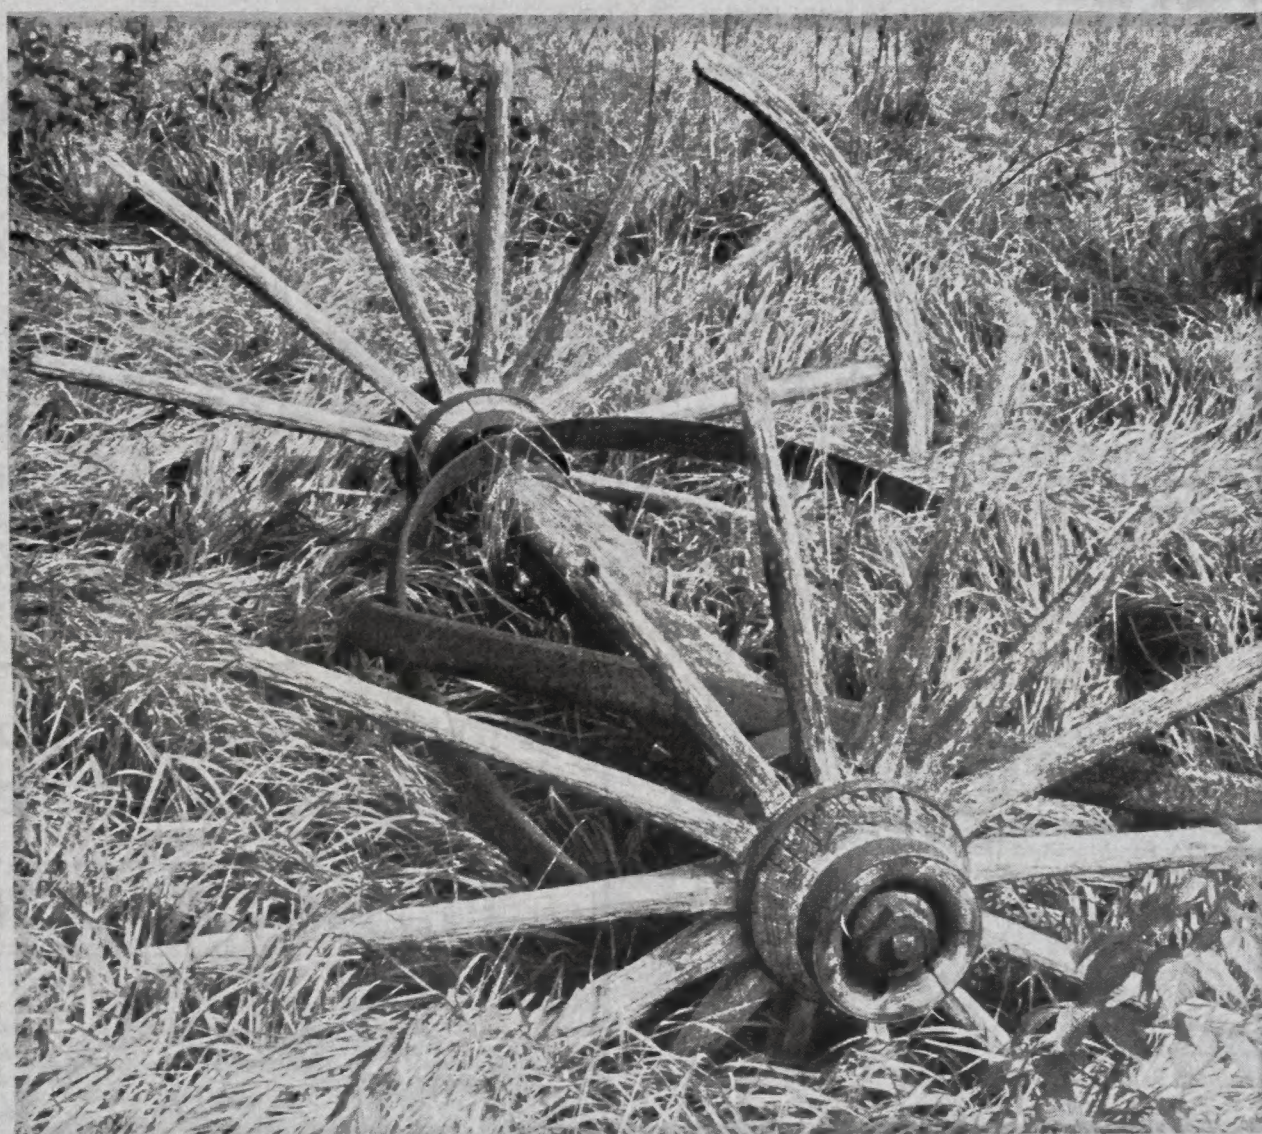

Editor:

Challenges! Everyone has them. Sometimes they intrude into our lives, uninvited, like my latest challenge.

Accepting life in a sitting position, due to the late effects of polio, certainly is proving to be a challenge, one which I am endeavouring to tackle in a positive manner.

I want to commend the businesses in Minden that are accessible to wheelchairs. Even though those of us who use four-wheelers aren't "out and about" as often as we were in our former days. It is good to know that there are some stores and restaurants where we can enter, patronize and enjoy. Hopefully, in the near future there will be even more businesses available to the physically challenged in our community.

Phyllis Sisson,

The end of the road.

From the spotlight to Shreddies

imagine the thrill of facing off against legends like Gretzky and Lemieux. Of playing in shrines like The Forum and Madison Square Gardens. Imagine the buzz of playing in Prague, Helsinki and Moscow. Of slipping a puck past the best netminders on the planet. Imagine the eerie chill that must trickle down the back of your hockey sweater as 15 or 20 thousand fans leap to their feet, punch the air and scream Hosannas and it's all aimed at you.

No wonder Guy Lafleur wants to stick his 37 year old legs into a pair of hockey skates again. Life on the street must be hellishly monotoned after life in a Canadiens jersey.

When I think of hockey and glory I often think of Paul Henderson, scorer of perhaps the most famous goal in hockey history. You remember it? Moscow, November 12, 1972. Final seconds of the final game against the dreaded Russians. Team Canada, invincible at the beginning of the series, had been battered and humiliated by the suddenly awesome Soviets. But the Canadians had been coming back and coming back. The game was tied and the clock was running out and then, in a finale that Samuel Goldwyn would have dismissed as too corny, Paul Henderson pulled off a modest miracle and scored the winning goal.

There's a famous photo that immortalizes the moment. The Soviet goalie is sagging, as if the air has been let out of him and in front of the net is Henderson leaping straight for the arena rafters. It was a heady moment, and about as much glory as any human heart should be expected to weather.

Which leads to a curious point: whatever became of Paul Henderson anyway? Nothing much. He came back from Moscow a national hero, played a couple of curiously lustreless seasons, then retired. It was almost as if he used up his Glory Quotient in that one incredible game.

But you don't have to play hockey to earn that orgasmic moment in the spotlight. Entertainers feel it regularly. So do lawyers, evangelists and politicians. Once in a while even a quiet diplomat gets his moment in the sun. Remember Ken Taylor? Once upon a time he was Canada's ambassador to Iran. Then the Shah was overthrown and the anti-American mad dog Komeini seized power. Taylor set up a kind of underground railroad that sheltered U.S. personnel trapped in Teheran and eventually smuggled them out of the country. America went crazy. They made that shy Canadian boy a national hero.

And where is he now? Why, he moved to Atlanta to be vice president of Nabisco Corporation.

Saviour of the Western World? Shilling for Shreddies and Cream of Wheat?

Cheer up, Guy ... Courage, Paul.

Things could be a lot worse.

Bruce Glass confirms plans to run for Liberal party

Bruce Glass of Lindsay has announced that he is running for the Victoria-Haliburton nomination in Lindsay on September 26.

Glass was the Liberal standard bearer in the 1984 election. Since then, he has continued to be active with the Liberal Association, having worked as the campaign manager for John Eakins in the 1985 and 1987 Provincial Election Campaigns.

"The most important issue facing voters will be the Free Trade Treaty with the United States," says Glass. "We do not want the deal the Mulroney Government made. We will be trading in our Canadian citizenship if that Treaty goes into effect".

"Another critical area of concern to all Canadians is the pollution of our environment. No longer can we pretend that there is no problem. All countries of the world are going to have to work together to clean up our planet. We must not leave the job to someone else. I am sure that every Canadian wants our children and grandchildren to have a future for which to live."

"The Liberal campaign will be ready to move whenever an election is called. Preferably, the sooner the better. It has been four years since the last election. I think people are ready to get out and make their decision about who they want as a government for the next term."

Glass has practiced law in Lindsay since 1971. He grew up in Lindsay. While attending university, he worked as a summer student in the riding moving furniture. Since 1971, the candidate has been quite involved with community organizations such as the Chamber of Commerce, the local Law Association, the Curling Club and the Kinsmen Club. In 1981-82, he was the National President of the Association of Kinsmen Clubs.

New county building

by John Eakins, M.P.P.

I recently had the honour and the pleasure of attending the official re-opening of the Victoria County Administrative Building in Lindsay.

The building, originally completed in 1863, is something the entire county can be proud of. It has been turned into a modern, new professional building, but it has still retained its original character.

The Victoria County administrative building represents a large part of our history in Victoria - Haliburton. The County of Victoria was established in 1861 and this landmark building was begun the following year. It was designed originally to be a court house and sheriff's office which, at that time, was essentially the range of a county's functions.

There is so much history contained in the walls and so much we can learn from this building. For example the county's clerk, Samuel Casey Wood, also served in the Ontario Legislature around 1874 and he was in the Cabinet of Sir Oliver Mowat. Indeed, the Second clerk of the county, Thomas Matchett, was acclaimed as the provincial representative for Victoria South in 1867.

Another important part of our history was the late Mr. Frank Weldon, who served as a clerk of Victoria County for almost half of this century - from 1927 to 1969. I was very pleased to see Mrs.

Marianne Weldon at the re-opening ceremonies. The ceremony, which took place in Lindsay on September 1, was well attended by both elected officials and members of the public. It was indeed a pleasure to present a commemorative gavel and striker to Peter Kirley, the Warden of Victoria County, as a symbol of his position on county council.

The men and women who had the foresight and determination to make the renovations should be commended. A large part of our history has been preserved and as a theologian once said; "History is the most living of things and there is nothing so present as the past."

Editor:

I just came across your paper of May 16-23 (This Week) and a story of interest appeared in it about the Bethel Church.

Upon reading it, I found an error, perhaps not significant to some, but there none the less. The names William and Blane Robinson should have been William and Blain Robertson.

Blain Robertson was my grandfather and he talked about Bethel Church. He did all the hewing of the pine logs in the church and his brother Wiliam did the score-hacking for him.

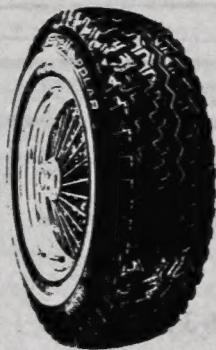

In either case of score-hacking or hewing you had to be a good axeman as anyone who is familiar with this kind of work will agree.

I didn't know who wrote up the article but this correction may be of interest to them.

Fulfilling last year's promise

by Jack Brezina

This Friday 44 "Minden Ambassadors" will help fulfill a promise made almost a year ago.

Last September, at this time, a group of tourists from Germany were visiting the Haliburton Highlands. It was the second such group to have travelled to the Highlands in as many years. While our area has many qualities that would attract European visitors, this group had come specifically to visit Minden, Ontario.

The village of Minden had a special attraction for the Europeans since most of the group were residents of the city of Minden, Germany. They had come to Canada to see one of the communities of the world which bears their city's name. The group was warmly welcomed, feted at a civic reception and taken on a number of tours of the Highlands, seeing the rolling hills at their colourful best.

It was during the reception given by the municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden, that the leader of the German group, Freidrich Schutte, urged residents of this community to make a similar visit to Germany, to enjoy the hospitality of their city. While a number of residents from our community had made individual visits to Minden, Germany, a large group had never been organized to go the European city.

Since Mr. Schutte is the editor of the daily newspaper, the Minden Tageblatt, serving the Minden, Germany area, he suggested that the responsibility for organizing the return visit fell to myself as editor of this newspaper. Immediately following the reception, there appeared to be a great deal of interest in the possibility of a return trip, so the expertise of the Town and Country Travel Consultants was called upon to put together a travel package that would appeal to residents of this area.

The concept was promoted and presented to the public in April of this year. Travel consultants Linda Coneybeare from Haliburton and Alan Coneybeare of Minden were available to answer questions concerning costs, accommodations and travel arrangements. The tour quickly filled, and the group began preparing for the September 23, departure.

Four days in Minden

The itinerary calls for the group to fly out of Pearson International Airport Friday evening, landing in Frankfurt Saturday morning. A motorcoach will then take the group almost directly to Minden, Germany to begin four days of travelling, touring and meetings in and around the city.

Among the sights awaiting the visitors from our village is a tour of the 26 operating windmills in the immediate Minden area. That tour will be hosted by the equivalent of our County Warden; a tour of the historic cities which line the banks of the Weser River near Minden.

Some of these cities are over 800 years old, including the city of Hamelin, best known to many as the home of the Pied Piper; a boat cruise on the River Weser and of the interesting canal system which intersect at Minden, with the city's Burgermeister (Mayor) Heinz Rothemeyer, as our host. A civic reception is planned, at which time the group will bring official greetings from the Municipality of Anson, Hindon and Minden to our hosts. The busy Minden schedule also includes a visit to the control centre for the West German rail system located at Minden, a tour of the Minden Tageblatt newspaper, some hands-on strudel making and partaking of the famous German hospitality.

It will be a very busy four days. From all reports received from our hosts, they are rolling out the proverbial "red carpet" for the visit of this group from Minden, Ontario, fulfilling the promise made almost a year ago.

On to Berlin

Following the Minden portion of the tour the travel agents have arranged an interesting and entertaining tour of other areas of Europe. From Minden the group will travel to Berlin for two days of touring that will include visits to East Berlin and the infamous Wall which divides the city.

From Berlin the group will go to the historic city of Rothenburg. The city is considered by many to be the highlight of the "Romantic Road" medieval towns, all faithfully restored to reflect an era several hundred years following the death of Christ.

The next stop on the itinerary is Munich, where the group will enjoy the last night of that city's famous Oktoberfest celebrations.

From there it's on to Salzburg and Innsbruck in Austria and Lucerne in Switzerland. After a number of stops in the Alps, the group will spend the final night in Europe in the German city of Heidelberg, before returning to Frankfurt and back to Toronto.

Following the group's return from Europe, Publisher Jack Brezina will have a number of reports on the reception in Minden, Germany and on the experiences during the trip.

German cousins arrive tomorrow

The popularity of the September trip to Ontario has grown in and around Minden, Germany and another group is expected to visit this area this week.

Arriving on Tuesday by bus, the group will be staying at Hart Lodge at which time a representative of the municipality will be on hand to welcome the overseas visitors and pass on greetings from the community.

While this week's visit is a continuation of the tours begun several years ago by individuals from Minden, Germany, this year the visiting group will include only one resident from that city.

In addition to the visit to Minden, the group will also be visiting Toronto, Kitchener, Niagara Falls, Kingston, Ottawa and Algonquin Park. Following their stay here, they will return to Toronto for their flight back to Germany.

Engineer okays Staunworth building

An engineer's report on the new Staunworth seniors complex gives it a clean bill of health, clearing the way for construction to continue.

A stop work order on a section of the building was imposed on August 30 by Anson, Hindon and Minden Building Official Brad Bradamore. He was questioning the integrity of a block wall, where the mortar joints were inconsistent in their widths between the blocks. Bradamore was asking that an engineer approve this wall before construction continues.

In spite of the stop work order, construction did continue, said Site Superintendent John Cowan. He said he was satisfied all along that the wall in question conforms with the building code.

Trexcon Construction, however, did have an engineer inspect the site on September 6. The engineer reported that "from a structural point of view, the thicker joints are within load bearing walls and with vertical and horizontal reinforcements. We confirm herewith that the walls are acceptable and to our satisfaction."

Cowan admits that the appearance of the blockwork is not up to par. However, it is structurally sound, he said. Steel rods and concrete were placed inside the blocks, he said, making the wall similar to a concrete wall.

Seniors excel at Actifest '88

by Bruce Armstrong

This is a brief and general report on Actifest '88!

Haliburton County, representing District 11 in the Ontario Senior Games structure, sent a contingent of 27 athletes to compete in 10 of the 14 games sanctioned. There were 12 others in the support group consisting of 10 spouses and/or guests, Bruce Armstrong as a Provincial OSG committee member and our special co-ordinator, Katherine Hodgson-McMahon - for a total of 39.

Monday was travel and sign-in day and as we registered at Century Gardens in Brampton we were sent to motor hotels, the golfers to the Holiday Inn and the remainder to the Ramada Inn down in Mississauga. By 5:30 buses had transported everyone back to the Chinquacousy Curling Club for a reception and the Opening Ceremonies. The special speaker for the evening was the Rt. Honourable Roland Michener who, incidentally was born in 1900.

Tuesday morning found all the seniors back on buses before 7 a.m. and heading for breakfast and their particular sport venues. 12 of the 14 events were started that day and medals for five completed games were awarded at that evening's gala Banquet: Ontario's lieutenant-governor Lincoln Alexander was the distinguished speaker and medal-awarder.

Wednesday involved another early rise and saw the final 10 games completed in the various locations around Brampton: the tennis players, lady golfers and lawn bowlers extended the 3:00 p.m. time limit somewhat but we were all back for the Closing Ceremonies, final awards and reports, and a reasonable start on the journey home.

The weather was almost perfect and the general consensus of the 1,000 contestants, and 280 special guests was that Brampton had been a terrific host city, and that Actifest '88 was a 3-day celebration long to be remembered. The anticipated announcement of the identity of the 1990

Kushog Lake access closed, another closure requested

Encouraged by Stanhope Township Council's response to a request to close a portion of a road allowance leading to Kushog Lake, Stan Dutka has decided to reapply for another closing on the opposite side of the lake.

Last Wednesday, council agreed to close up a portion of the original road allowance between Concessions two and three on the west side of the lake. Closing this portion of the allowance will allow Bern O'Brien, who owns the adjacent property, to purchase the land where he has already built a garage.

Dutka, who lives across the lake had asked to purchase the road allowance next to his property late last year but was turned down by council. He was at Wednesday's meeting, suggesting that if council is willing to close one allowance, it should also be willing to close up another. He asked council to reconsider his application.

Councillor Jim Harrison said there is no comparison between the two situations. In O'Brien's case, only 25 feet of the allowance is being closed. There will still be a 41-foot allowance remaining. Reeve Harry Davis said there is also a big difference in the terrains of the individual properties. Whereas the one next to Dutka's property has a gentle slope, Davis said the one next to O'Brien's is very steep.

Dutka hopes to purchase half the road allowance, while the neighbour on the opposite side would buy the other half. The idea is to make this access point private.

A special speaker showing slides Hi-lighted the September 14th meeting of Minden Women's Institute at the Common Room with Mrs. Lacey in charge.

The Roll Call of How We Welcome Immigrants was answered by 21 members and 2 guests were made welcome, including a former member Thelma Ewing.

We had two successful bake sales this summer and several members turned in donations in lieu of baking. Mrs. A. Coulter read the Card Report from Mrs. Moore, showing 49 cards sent since our last meeting. Collections for Card Fund and Pennies for Friendship were taken and Secretary Mrs. Lyman Cox gave out Home and Country magazines and programmes to those not having one. Mrs. Coulter then gave an amusing reading.

Then Convenor, Mrs. Loyne Cox, introduced Gerry Feltham and he brought information on Wells provided in other parts of the world. He showed many slides of India, Phillipines, China, etc. with great details on these. In appreciation a donation was made to H.A.V.E. Mrs. Lacey read programme for next meeting of October 19 at 2 at this same location.

Then the committee had a tasty lunch and cup of tea ready, and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Actifest host city has been delayed due to "Politics, Communication and money!"

We are proud of our silver medal winner, Mrs. Glenda Robertson of Minden who competed in the golfing event. While our other Haliburton "athletes" did not quite achieve medal status this year, the group as a whole is to be congratulated on the fine efforts and excellent deportment. We received many favourable comments on our Haliburton County tartan vests and caps.

Misti Campbell is a Minden high school student who is spending a year in Japan as part of the Rotary youth exchange program. She is sponsored by the Rotary club of Minden and hosted by Rotarians in Hirakata City, near Osaka. Misti has agreed to share her experiences in the far east with our readers through regular reports from Japan. This is the first of her letters to The Times, written August 29. ≡ 2 T - Hi! How are you? I'm doing quite well, though I do have a cold!

I left Pearson International airport at about 10:30 a.m. on the 24th and flew 4 hours to Vancouver where the plane refuelled, taking 2 hours, for the trip to Tokyo.

The trip to Tokyo took 9 hours and 6 minutes. This flight was the most tiring of the 3 yet I didn't sleep at all!

Once I got to Tokyo, (Narita Airport), and proceeded to go through customs and meet with some Rotary officials. Up until this point I had been flying with about 15 other exchange students, mostly Canadians, and a few Americans.

After spending 5 hours in Tokyo Narita Airport, one girl from Canada and myself took a local flight to Osaka which took only an hour. When I arrived at Osaka International Airport the time was 8:45 p.m. on the 25th. I hadn't slept for 30 hours and I was dead tired but I had to keep going because my host family, Otasan (dad), Okasan (mom), and Hitashi (my brother) along with my counsellor, the chairman of youth exchange District 266, two other Rotary members, and Okasan's niece Mayumi were waiting to greet me.

They were all very excited and happy that I finally arrived, they took me out to dinner at a steak house.

I had to wash my hands when I got to the steak house so I asked where the washroom was. They showed me the hall and I followed it to a door about 5' 6" high! (Later on I found out that all doors are usually no taller than 5' 10" except for businesses!)

I ate a western/Japanese dinner - though I didn't eat very much at that! From here Otosan, Okasan, Hitashi, Mayumi and myself drove home.

The roads in Japan are very narrow, only fitting two Nissan Corettas side by side and enough room for one person standing sideways between the cars. Not only are the roads narrow, they are very twisty like a very complicated maze. There are few road signs except for stop signs and the odd street and speed sign. All other signs are painted on the road itself.

There are mostly Japanese cars here and very few others except for the ODD BMW or Mercedes Benz! Japanese drive on the right side of the car and the left side of the road and you have to be eighteen to get your licence (which is very understandable!) Motorcycles, mopeds, or scooters are very popular here especially with the younger generation because you only have to be sixteen to get your licence for these.

My house here is very nice! There is a stone walkway from the road up to the house with a Japanese tree garden on either side of the walkway. As soon as you step in the house there is a four foot square where you take off your shoes, then you step about two feet up to the main floor where, to your left is a Japanese Room (in every house) which has sliding doors, tami mats, a low table, knee pillows and a few Japanese paintings and dolls. In some houses, the Japanese Room also holds a "shrine box" where praying to the Buddha (Japanese Religion) is done. These "boxes" are very nice and expensive because the inside has a thin layer of gold all over!

To the right is a narrow hallway with a four foot square containing the toilet - it isn't a Japanese toilet, it is a cross between a western and Japanese toilet - it having a single tap that goes off automatically when you flush the toilet for washing your hands. It took me a while to figure that out because I was too embarrassed to ask! Beside the toilet room is a slightly bigger room with a sink and attaching shower and Japanese bathtub. (A 2 foot by 3 foot by 3 foot marble tub).

At the end of the hall is the kitchen, and off the kitchen is the dining room with a regular set of table and chairs and where dinner is eaten. The dining room opens into the living-room where a low table, knee pillows are the only furniture besides a T.V. and bookcase.

Upstairs has three bedrooms and a toilet. My bedroom has a desk and chair and a bed, I sleep on the floor on a special mattress, it also has closets and an air conditioner which is good because the temperature here is a humid 33 degrees C each day!

On the second day I arrived, I went to a Rotary Party where I said a short speech in Japanese with the help of Otosan, and ate my first sushi! All Japanese food is good although some foods you must acquire a taste for!

Unlimited television viewing is possible with satellite 120 television channels at your fingertips. That's what a new business in Carnarvon is offering Highlands residents.

Ontario Satellite Reflections, opened its doors September 8 in an office adjacent to the Jug City store at the corner of Highways 35 and 118. The business, which is owned by Ivy Watson, specializes in the installation and servicing of satellite receiver systems. It's these systems, with the large dish pointed skyward, that allows television viewers access to the numerous satellites currently orbiting the earth. Each communication satellite beams an array of television programs to the earth, providing a selection that is far greater than the number that can be received through the traditional roof-top aerial or cable system.

Ivy Watson notes that the range of programs is extensive, ranging from channels that specialize in religious programming, through all movie channels, sports, music, education, news, weather and even channels with "X" rated material. "There is something on the air for just about every taste just about anytime you tune in," Ivy explains.

Ivy works with installation specialist Ken Watson. He has six years experience in the business and has extensive background in satellite dish installation and maintenance. To ensure customer satisfaction, they make sure the equipment they offer for sale is of top quality. When a new system is installed, they also ensure that the customer understands how to operate the new technology. "We stand behind our product," Ivy comments. "If there's a problem we'll make a follow-up service call, or if we can, provide assistance over the phone."

The new store features a variety of new equipment, as well as used systems.

The new company is still in need of staff. According to Ivy they need an assistant installer for part-time work.

Ivy Watson is the owner of Ontario Satellite Reflections in Carnarvon

Property rights violated

by Bob Stinson

Property rights are being violated with increasing and frightening frequency by all levels of government, according to information provided to us by both the Canadian and Ontario Real Estate Associations. Property rights of individuals are all too often recognized only when they are violated, they say, and we must strive to achieve a balance between private rights and the public good.

Examples of provincial actions which intrude on property rights is legislation preventing conversion of apartments to condominiums - even when the tenants desire it, and restrictions on sale of farmland by farmers. Other violations can take the form of inadequate compensation awards in expropriation and restrictive zoning laws. These are merely examples, and the list of laws affecting property rights is endless. In Ontario, more than 700 provincial statutes infringe on property rights, a study has shown.

Private Property Week, designated for September 26 to October 2, 1988 is an opportunity to remind Canadians for the need to preserve individual property rights. Canada was founded and built by settlers dedicated to the principle of property rights - the prospect of available land and tenure, that would provide both security and opportunity. Our own communities within Haliburton County were built by people looking for new opportunity - and the cornerstone of that opportunity was private property.

The Haliburton Real Estate Board strongly believes in the benefits of property ownership. It promotes good citizenship, greater involvement in the community and is one of the fundamental underpinnings of a free and democratic society. Real Estate ownership is one of the most important goals of almost all Canadians and should be protected.

The Haliburton Board will observe Private Property Week with a dinner held at Locarno Resort on September 29 to which they have invited the candidates in the upcoming Federal election to address these issues.

Plenty to see and do in Japan

meat, soup, vegetables and cold tea, which is very bitter - but good!

There are many different kinds of fashions here yet one thing I have noticed is you dress up whenever you leave the house. Shorts, muscle shirts, and jogging pants are unacceptable in the average public place especially for women.

The price of clothes varies here; for example - Levis jeans cost $100 while genuine leather jackets cost $500; fruits like apples and oranges are $3 to $4, and melons range from $2 to $8. Camera products are the same as Canada or cheaper, so you see, it depends on the product you want to buy.

School, for me, starts on September 1st. I will be going to a co-ed school, but I'll have to wear a uniform. Today I will go to the school to meet my teachers and get measured for my uniform.

Japan is a very beautiful country and I am learning alot - everytime I open my eyes I see something new!

I will leave this letter for now and I'll write in a few week's time.

Until then, Sayonara!

With scissors in hand, First Vice President of the Ontario Command, Royal Canadian Legion, Horace Tudhope does the honours to officially open the Minden Branch 636. Assisting with the honours are, right, Branch President Tony Samarillo, left, F4 Zone Commander Stan Moore and District F Commander Ken Jeffries.

Ceremony marks opening of new Minden Legion

It was a proud moment for the members of Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 636, Saturday. In almost a year to the day that the Minden Legion received its charter, the members gathered to mark the official opening of their new building at the intersection of Highways 35 and 121.

Members of the branch, dignitaries from branches throughout the area, and Minden citizens gathered to help mark the occasion.

The new branch is located in the former Fireside Restaurant building. The structure includes a meeting room on the main floor, games room, smaller meeting area upstairs and a fully equipped kitchen.

On hand to officiate at the opening ceremonies was the first vice president of the Ontario Command of the Legion, Horace Tudhope. He paid tribute to the hard work of the members and executive of the local branch. Addressing Branch 636 President Tony Samarillo, Tudhope said, "It's not easy to put a new branch of the Legion together. Tony, you have done well. Your members and community should be proud of what you have accomplished in one year."

He cautioned the members, however, that their real work was just starting. Ahead, he told the audience, lies the challenge of building the branch's membership, becoming involved in the many Legion programs and reaching out to the community with service programs, especially for seniors and youth.

He noted, that to survive, a Legion Branch must attract and interest participation of younger members of the community. He noted that while the Legion was an organization of veterans of the two world wars and the Korean conflict, these people cannot be expected to carry the work of the Legion forward alone. "Working together, young and old, will get you down the road," the Ontario Command representative stated.

Tudhope also paid tribute to the work of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion. "They play a big part in any branch, often holding a branch together through its toughest times," he told the group.

Outlining the many activities the Legion is involved in Tudhope noted the Minden branch is part of an organization which includes 700,000 members in 1475 branches across Canada, in the United States and West Germany. He pointed out that in addition to the numerous services and programs provided directly through the Legion, the organization last year contributed over $15 million to other charitable causes.

"We have common purpose," Tudhope said,

SLACAR looks ahead to 1989

submitted by Ken Brown

While we put away the deck chairs, haul in the boat and repair broken storm windows, thoughts already drift to our return to South Lake in '89 after the snow is gone again.

Will the road to South Lake be finished, complete with smooth, wide safe curves?

Will the tent caterpillars be back again to strip the trees?

Will Reeve Vick run for office again?

Will Free Trade cause Minden to boom?

Will Minden be renamed Ollie North Village?

Will Minden build an impressive monument to its Pioneers on the shore of Gull River?

Will more Minden stores move to Highway 35?

Will the new buildings in Minden look as bad as some of Haliburton's new stores?

Will the minimum wage for most jobs still be the rule in Haliburton County?

Will more retirees move to Haliburton from the big cities?

Will our Conservative Government in Ottawa continue to cut Health Care financing to the Provinces?

Will the loons find their way back from Florida to South Lake?

Will our cottage be worth a lot more money next summer?

Will there be many break-ins of empty cottages this winter?

Will most residents of Minden head for Florida after Christmas?

Fortunately, Bob Martin, President of South Lake Association of Cottagers and Residents runs a tight ship and his agenda for the September 9 final Executive Meeting of the season left little room for idle questions. The year end review of SLACAR activities ranging from water quality, fish species, property identification, neighbourhood watch, and social programmes was enough to portray an active, broadly based organization. Add to the list a Municipal Affairs Committee, membership in FOCA, financial donations to county projects, and an informative communications programme. No wonder our hard working Membership Committee reports 75% of South Lake property owners are paid up members of SLACAR.

Whether one swims in the lake; uses it as a source of drinking water; boats on it; fishes in it or merely stares at it, South Lake is our 'jewel in the crown' and should be treated accordingly. We welcome new voices and input for our project with Environment Ontario to implement a lake wide test of property sewage systems in order to preserve the water quality for next year and each year thereafter.

The Executive Committee will issue, as part of their 'futures agenda' a questionnaire to all

Party hunting for moose is allowed this year

Hunters will be allowed to hunt co-operatively as members of a party for adult bull and cow moose this year, Natural Resources Minister Vincent Kerrio announced today.

"Party hunting" for adult moose means that, within certain limits, one licenced moose hunter may shoot an adult moose for which another hunter in his party has a validation tag. Party hunting for calf moose has been permitted since 1986.

"The majority of hunters surveyed recently by my ministry favoured a return to party hunting because it allows for more social contact between friends and family members who go hunting together," Natural Resources Minister Vincent Kerrio said. "In making this change, we are responding to the views hunters made known in an extensive review of the moose program over the past year."

The selective harvest system for moose was introduced in 1983 to increase Ontario's declining moose population. Since then, the moose population has increased and is well on the way to the ministry's target of 160,000 moose in Ontario by the year 2000.

Under the Selective

Harvest System, hunters must enter a draw to obtain a validation tag to hunt an adult bull or cow moose. More than 80,000 hunters entered the 1988 draw, and about 32,800 tags were issued.

The number of tags made available in each

Wildlife Management Unit (WMU) is calculated on the basis of the size of the herd, the increase in population desired, and the success rate of hunters in harvesting moose in the unit in the past.

Legion officially open

"referring to national Legion brotherhood, "that is greater than ourselves. I look forward to the day when you invite me back here for the mortgage burning ceremony.

Responding to the remarks, Branch 636 President Anthony Samarillo told the audience this would be a "thriving Legion". He noted the many hours of work which had gone into preparing the new building was a firm indication of the support the organization enjoyed from its members.

He said the branch was dedicated to assisting veterans in every possible way and to reaching out to the community.

Noting the presence of representatives from area Legions, the president said, "We will never be ungrateful for the financial support provided by our fellow Legion members."

Following the dedication of the building and the ribbon cutting, a special citation was presented to Branch 636 property chairman Dave McAdam. President Samarillo praised the property chairman for his expert guidance during the negotiations to purchase the building and his leadership in overseeing the renovations of the structure. The presentation was made by first vice president Tudhope to McAdam.

The property chairman responded by pointing out that the completion of the building project would not have been possible without the volunteer support of the many members.

Following the ceremonies, the audience was invited to tour the new branch and enjoy an afternoon of fellowship.

It was standing room only for the official opening of Branch 636, Royal Canadian Legion, in Minden Saturday.

Another summer is gone

The following article was taken from the Algonquin Park Newsletter, THE RAVEN.

It's hard to believe that another summer has come and gone. The woods are quiet, the nights are nippy, and the first snow is only a couple of months away. Still, before winter comes, Algonquin will pass through what many of us consider to be the nicest season of all. Calm clear days, wildlife at its best, superb hiking - who could ask for more? And, topping off all the other attractions, of course, is the fall colour spectacle normally peaking sometime in the last week of September. We don't have to remind regular Park visitors just how dazzling the autumn shutdown of tree foliage can be in Algonquin. Still, there is another, perhaps even more captivating aspect of tree biology which is strongly hinted at by the fall colours but which nevertheless goes unnoticed by almost all of us.

To explain what we mean here, we have to point out that there are really two main tree species which put on the big colour show at the end of the month, the Sugar Maple and the Red Maple. As a matter of fact - if you will allow us to digress momentarily into a bit of a sermon - it is a sad commentary on general environmental awareness in this country that we have to do this. Red and Sugar Maples are so common and so important in Ontario that everyone should know them but, sad to say, this is far from true - even among biology and forestry students. Not knowing these two trees apart is about like not knowing a moose from a deer. No, that's not stating the case strongly enough. Red and Sugar Maples are far from just minor variations on the same theme; they are completely different organisms. Apart from the anatomical differences (such as those in the leaves shown here) the two trees have completely different lifestyles. Sugar Maples are the dominant tree on the moist, well-drained hills of the Park's west side. They are also "bisexual" in the sense that the flowers, produced at leaf-out time back in May, contain both male and female parts and each tree can fertilize and be fertilized - and then produce seeds which ripen slowly over the summer.

Red Maples, on the other hand, usually grow in places that Sugar Maples can't inhabit - dry rocky hillsides, or wet mucky soil beside bogs and beaver ponds. They can achieve the tall size and proportions of a Sugar Maple but, especially on the poorer sites, they tend to be small and sprawling, often with multiple trunks. Even more striking is the way they flower. To begin with, they produce their deep red, quite beautiful flowers soon after the snow disappears and well before leaf-out. And, even more different from Sugar Maple, those flowers are almost always strictly male or strictly female. Each individual tree, furthermore, usually has flowers different sex lives of the two maples. The differences do show up again, however, and this is what we were alluding to when we said earlier that the brilliant fall colours hinted at one of the most fascinating aspects of tree biology.

Sugar Maple leaves can turn almost any shade of yellow, orange or red but it seems to depend on the particular place on the tree occupied by the leaves, with shaded leaves ending up yellow and leaves exposed to the sun, even on the same tree, turning more orange or red. With Red Maple leaves, however, the fall colours depend on the sex of the tree. It is the male Red Maple trees that produce the brilliant scarlet or red of only one sex, meaning that there are female Red Maple trees and male Red Maple trees (the males being perhaps seven times more numerous).

Now you would have to agree that these differences are about as profound as you could imagine and underscore our disappointment that so few people distinguish between Red and Sugar Maples. Nevertheless we have to admit that the flowering of both maples is over so early in the year that very few people have the chance to appreciate the utterly leaves which give the species its name whereas the much less numerous female trees turn to a very different, distinctly yellow, or at the most, orangish, colour. We ourselves only learned of this spectacular sex difference a couple of years ago when a distinguished forester pointed it out to us. Since then we have taken great interest in picking out, often from great distances, male and female Red Maples during the fall colour season.

We invite you to try your hand as well, of course, but you might also like to try than pollen but only when a Striped Maple is big, or about to be shaded out and killed anyway, does it throw energy into the costly, even life-threatening, business of producing seeds.

We don't know if this applies to the Red Maple as well but look forward to the day when someone finds out. It truly is amazing that, until now, no one has done the necessary field work and analysis. After all, it's not as if Red Maples were particularly hard to find or study. Indeed, with the striking male reds and female yellows we will be seeing in a few weeks, these trees can hardly come up with a more flamboyant way of advertising their sex habits.

And surely there has to be somebody out there besides the Raven who is interested in this whole concept of sex in the leaves. What are people waiting for?

coming up with a reason why the two maple species should have such completely different lifestyles in the first place. As astounding as it may seem, especially for such a common tree as the Red Maple, no one really knows why it almost always has separately sexed trees whereas the Sugar Maple never does. There is even the possibility, hinted at by the little research which has been done on the subject, that individual trees may actually start their reproductive lives off as males and then gradually change over to being partly and then entirely females. This pattern has been established for a third species, the Striped Maple (also common in Algonquin Park). The advantage seems to be that, for a small tree struggling to make a living in dense shade, it is more economical at first to be purely male. All males have to do is produce pollen, as opposed to being obliged to produce big, energy-rich (and energy-draining) seeds the way females do. Seeds are more likely to produce offspring

French language referendum is on Stanhope ballots

Stanhope Township residents will have a chance to voice their opinions on the expansion of french language services in the province when they go to the polls for the November 14 municipal elections.

Stanhope council passed a resolution at last Wednesday's meeting to include a referendum on the ballots asking voters if they are in favour of the municipality spending time and money to improve french language services in Stanhope. In doing so, Stanhope Township is joining with scores of other municipalities in the province which are asking similar questions of their residents.

The suggestion to include a referendum on the ballot is being made by the Alliance for the Protection of English in Canada. This organization is fighting to stop the erosion of the rights of English Canadians.

"It's a question that's not going to go away," Councillor Ann Barker said of the growing demand for French services. A referendum at least gives people a chance to have their say."

Acid Rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing laboratory in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

There were three periods of precipitation during the period of September 4 - 10.

September 4th - pH 4.4, 18 mm rain from Pennsylvania, New York, and eastern Ontario.

- September 5th, pH 4.8 - 1 mm rain from northern Ontario and central Ontario.

September 6th - pH 4.9 - 2 mm rain from northern Ontario and central Ontario.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Branch 129 news

by Mabel Brannigan

On September 8, five representatives from Branch 129 attended the Zone Leadership seminar conducted by Comrade Mel Robertson, and held at Branch 636, Minden. Zone Commander Comrade Stanley Moore and Deputy Zone Commander Comrade Ken Bell attended. Other Zone branches were represented as well.

On September 25, a bus will go to Havelock District Drumhead. If you wish to go, sign up at the branch.

At the September general meeting, Comrade Ken Walsh of Branch 636 made a personal presentation to Branch 129 of a miniature replica of H.M.S. HOOD. Comrade Ken Fieldhouse has now completed the war memorabilia display. This unusual exhibition compares with that seen in large museums. Both H.M.S. HOOD and the war memorabilia can be viewed in the Mountbatten Room.

Plans are underway for the 60th Anniversary celebrations. Comrade President Fred Knight invites those wishing to come to sign at the branch. Our Ladies Auxiliary are preparing the dinner with our cadets serving it so they will need to know how many to expect.

A District seminar for branch officers and interested members will be held in Lindsay on September 19.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of Millie Wood whose funeral was this week.

Senior golf continues every Tuesday and Friday at 10 a.m. at Lakeside Golf Course. Comrade Maxine Cross is our sports officer and an expert in all aspects of sports. Clubroom entertainment continues every Saturday evening.

The general meeting on October 6 at 8 p.m. is a very important one for all members. By now everyone should have received a Notice of Motion, and this motion will be debated at that time.

So long to South Lake

members. Information will be sought to develop a profile of the members life on the lake including likes and dislikes for the purpose of designing a meaningful South Lake Plan. Coupled with the survey Barb Lester will chair a Search Committee to tap activists among our talented lake residents for the 1989-90 term as committee and executive.

Perhaps in the Spring of '89 we will initiate Fair Trade discussions between SLACAR and the town folk of Minden. You will gain our friendships and lose your favourite parking spot in front of the drug store on Main Street. We will enjoy your company and appreciate the friendly greeting extended each day. We will come in town to shop and yet each will preserve our own identity ... fair trade ... which may after all be much better than Free Trade.

Have a safe and healthy winter.

Thanks

The Ministry of Natural Resources would like to thank the people of Haliburton and Victoria Counties for their assistance during the 1988 fire season. Without your help, many of the 58 forest fires that we have had to date could have resulted in even more destruction to your forests and private property. The Municipal Fire Departments played a key role and should be proud of their efforts - thank you for a job well done.

The Minden Times and the Haliburton County Echo also deserve a lot of credit for their coverage of events and for keeping everyone informed of the Forest Fire situation throughout the summer.

The fire season is not yet over and we ask for everyone's assistance in preventing forest fires as we head into the fall season.

Thank you again,

Hello Readers:

The Chapel service Sunday evening was by Rev. J. Burgess, with music by Maron Rose. Tuesday morning the service was held by Rev. George Elliott of Minden Anglican Church.

We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family and friends of Mrs. Millie Wood who passed away suddenly this past week. She will be missed.

Jean Taylor spent Saturday at the home of her niece Mrs. Hobbs. Mrs. Coburn is home after an enjoyable week going to the west coast with her daughter. Angus Coulter had Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hewitt, Verna Jarvis, Murray and Mabel Hewitt and Murray walker in to visit. Bert Harrison had his daughter Mrs. Ackerblade to see him Sunday morning and his son Holly and friend in the afternoon. Gertie McKay had her brother Elgy and his wife in on Monday to see her. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Peel were in to visit Hazel Hoskin on Thursday. Mary McKelvey visited her son Max on Sunday. Bill Moore's son Dennis is visiting with his Mom and Dad from B.C. He will be visiting for a couple of weeks. Dennis hasn't been home in over four years. A nice surprise for Irene and Bill.

Sorry to say Dora Dawson has not been very well this last week. Mrs. Shuyler is home from the hospital and seems much better.

The Legion Ladies from Kinmount brought and served our Thursday afternoon tea and goodies. It was lovely, we really loved it.

Our new stove which was purchased by our Auxiliary has been hooked-up and a baking program is in full swing.

I am sorry I'm so late in mentioning this, but August 13th, was a lucky day for us. A Barn Dance was held at Minden Arena and proceeds from the dance came to us for a new bus. Thanks to, three bands, North Country Express, Flat Broke and Harmony Road, and merchants who donated prizes and put money into the horsepail. Special thanks to May Hicks for donating a beautiful handmade Dresden plate quilt which brought $150.00 for our fund. Thanks also to Bill Payne for his terrific M.C. work and to Opal and Don Crowe and family for sponsoring the dance. Kirk Bull actually thought up the whole idea and his band members followed through by setting up the wagon bar and antique display of farm implements, and many other jobs to help organize this most successful dance. Thanks to Doris Robertson for suggesting that the charity money come to us. Because of the efforts of everybody concerned, we have received almost $3,000 toward our new bus.

Recently there has been another project started. The residents and staff of Hyland Crest are putting together another cookbook. Doris Robertson has spent the past two weeks working with a representative of Gateway Publishing Company, approaching the business people of our County to advertise in our book. The support given to us by the business people is overwhelming. Because of them, we will have about 1000 books to sell. Cookbooks will hopefully be ready for sale by Christmas or early in the new year. They will be selling for $6.00 each. Great books with real great recipes, and proceeds will go to our bus fund.

All till next week.

Life is a precious gift to be cherished for all living beings, not only for ourselves.

Moose get Michigan marker

Algonquin Park moose are now engraved in stone in the USA. Operation "Mooselift", a combined effort by wildlife managers of Michigan and Ontario, has been commemorated in a plaque by the Michigan Outdoor Writer's Association this month, at Van Riper State Park near Marquette Michigan.

The bronze plaque attached to a large granite boulder relates the story.

"Operation Mooselift: Commemorating the reintroduction of moose. Early in 1985, at a site a few miles northwest of here, 29 Canadian moose were released in an attempt to re-establish the species in Michigan. Thirty additional moose were released in the same area two years later. In those remarkable efforts supported by private groups throughout the state, the huge animals were captured by Michigan and Canadian wildlife managers in Ontario's Algonquin Provincial Park, airlifted by helicopter to a nearby base camp, then trucked 600 miles to their new home. By mid-1987 our new moose herd had grown to more than 100 animals, making the goal of a thousand moose by the year 2000 seem reachable indeed."

In addition to the commemorative plaque, an information kiosk will become a permanent addition to the Van Riper State Park interpretive program.

Mike Wilton, Algonquin Regional Wildlife Biologist in Huntsville, attended the plaque unveiling event on August 3 in Michigan. Wilton suggests that "Ontario visitors to the Michigan site should be proud of this excellent example of international cooperation." He also adds, "And, oh yes--watch out for the moose!"

Water levels

On Tuesday, September 5, the reservoir lakes in Haliburton averaged 39.0%, which was the same level as on that date a year ago. The dry weather of last week, did turn to rain for Labour Day weekend, but too late to prevent the decline.

Along the Kawarthas the weekend rains were significant and gave a boost to levels that were only about mid-range before. This greatly reduced the need for Haliburton area water so the flows of the Gull, Burnt, Mississauga, Eels and Jack tributary rivers were all reduced. A lesser decline of reserve water should result this coming week.

To enable replacement of the bottom stoplogs at the Gooderham Dam, it will be lowered a little earlier this autumn than usual. Water saved on the Glamour Lakes upstream will then be used to quickly restore it to its proper level. The decline of this lake is likely to begin the week of September 13. The stoplog replacement should then be possible before the end of September, and the levels be normal again before Thanksgiving.
